Uniform and Dress Code

The school uniform policy is mandated by Venezuelan law/practice. Also CIC believes that a uniform policy assures that there are fewer distractions for the students in terms of less wasted time worrying about what to wear to school.

These uniform rules are discussed and shared with all CIC students at the beginning of each school year. Although it is easy to comply with this policy, the school expects the parents' and students' support so that the adherence to the policy does not become an important concern at the school. Parents should check that their children have the required clothing and that they are wearing the correct uniform as they go to school in the morning.

Teachers on Morning Duty and First period commonly check to see that their students are in compliance with our policy. Students with repeat violations will not be allowed in class unless they are properly dressed, and parents may be called to bring their children any needed clothing. Students must be in uniform from the time they enter campus in the morning until they leave campus. Any missed classes due to arriving at school out of uniform will be considered an unexcused absence. School polos are usually available at the School's store near the canteen.
